How Can I Connect Soldiers with their Kids?

By donating Webtime Stories™ to military families, as they serve our country, overseas!

What are Webtime Stories™?

Webtime Stories are simply bedtime stories on the web! BeThereBedtimeStories.com is a cool new website that embeds webcam recorded video of a storyteller right onto the page of a children's e-book, so that families far apart can connect in a super fun and creative way. Grandparents, aunts, uncles, traveling parents and military parents can build relationships and build literacy, through this unique new multi-media. It's way more than just video chat!

How does the donation drive work?

It's easy! Just visit the link below to make your $4.99 donation - or donate as many stories as you wish! That's it!

Who receives my donations?

Stories are distributed through our partner: Blue Star Families - a military family support organization, serving as a bridge between military families, the shapers of policy affecting military life, and the nation. This leading organization has worked directly with many high-profile leaders and celebrities, including Cher, Jack Black, the Ellen Show, and Dr. Jill Biden and First Lady Michelle Obama, raising awareness on the on-going needs of MilFams.

"My kids could not BELIEVE Daddy was reading with them. The site said that we can watch it unlimited times, which will also be a blessing. When the kids get lonely, this video/storybook will come in handy. Anything I can do for this organization, it has helped keep my kids and I going. THANK YOU" :) Becky Long, Military Mom

"Reading is so important many areas of child development. Our family reads at least every night at bedtime and many times throughout the day. If my child could read with far-away family members even better development and bonding will occur! This is like a dreamland! Thank you for providing this reading opportunity to our WHOLE family - no matter how far away the members are from each other!"
